Most of the time, those reddish or brownish acne marks that are left behind after pimples clear up will fade with no need for treatment. Picking or squeezing acne can increase the risk for scarring, though. Acne scars take two forms: scars with a gradual dip or depression (sometimes called "rolling" scars) scars that are deep and narrow. A person's acne needs to be under control before scars can be treated. Tackle acne scars, discoloration, and craters for gorgeous skin with these powerhouse creams and treatments. Specifically formulated to repair facial marks and.
