A question we have seen often in social media when it comes to death is, "When should I start planning my funeral?" or "I'm only in my 20s does that mean it's too early to start funeral planning?"

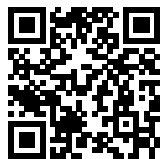

The question, when should one start making funerals plans, cannot be answered by a definite number. Really, we cannot give you an appropriate age to start.

It's quite subjective to the person wanting to do it and the reasons why they want to start.
