One day up... the next day down. But now you can gain stability and success. When you suddenly start making mistakes, it is caused by something. When you feel unhappy and, for no apparent reason, suddenly start feeling down, somebody has made this happen. On the Overcoming Ups and Downs in Life Course you will learn: - How to distinguish the two types of people - those who try to build things up and those who try to tear thing down. - What to do about people who wish you harm - How to recognise your true friends from those who work against you. With the know-how to handle the causes behind your misfortunes, you can change your life for the better, make those ups and downs a thing of the past and aspire to your highest goals. "This has been the best experience while studying a course on people and personalities. Human behaviour has always interested me and has been one of my favourite studies. This course explained everything that was missing from all the other books I'd read. I understand the how, why, what and when and I can feel free now." S.P. "The data in this course helped me understand the condition I was in. As I applied this knowledge, my life began to change almost immediately. I realised how constructive and disastrous people can be and why they may be this way. This helped me to know my true friends and the people I can trust. It helped me to deal with things I thought I had no control over. I can use this knowledge to improve life and be successful." C.F Length of the course is 6 days part-time. Enroll Today!
