Insights and intrigues of a lifetime's reporting by one of Britain's top political journalists. Dust-jacket blurb includes: "For thirty years Robin Oakley has reported from the front line of British politics. Throughout the 1990s his was one of the BBC's most familiar faces on the Nine O'Clock News, as night after night he stood outside the Houses of Parliament or Number Ten Downing Street, telling us about the highs and lows of political life, the swings and roundabouts of cabinet reshuffles, and the machinations and intrigues of senior politicians. . . . Peppered with wonderful anecdotes told with appealingly self-deprecating humour and spiced with telling insights into the working of today's press, Inside Track shows us what it's really like to be a top journalist stalking the corridors of power."
