Our DUOTECH FITTERS are experts at fixing all sizes of TV to the wall although we may require a 2nd pair of hands for screens bigger than 42". We recommend that the TV should be installed on either a solid masonry wall or on a stud partition wall. Mounting a television on the wall can save space and enhance viewing. Those who are interested in hanging their TV on a mount bracket may be curious about their options. TYPES OF TV WALL MOUNT AND BRACKETS Interactive Full Motion Tilt Fixed Articulating Under Cabinet Ceiling Swivel Specifications When looking for the perfect TV wall mount, you will want one with a wide TV size range and a large weight capacity. These two specifications will make installation easier and will allow the mount to work with your future TV purchases. You'll also want to look for a wide tilt-angle range. Depending on where you mount the product, the tilt range will make all the difference in your viewing pleasure. If the tilt is off, the picture will be hard to view. For aesthetic purposes, we like flat screen TV wall mounts with profiles that stick out from the wall no more than 2.5 inches. Ease of Installation Not only do you want to be sure your TV is securely installed, but you also want the installation process to be as short and painless as possible. Look for TV mounts with built-in bubble levels, mounting hardware for most of the VESA compatibility options and clear installation instructions from the manufacturer. We are qualified tradesmen, fully insured and offer a full, 1 year written guarantee on all work and equipment. You'll not pay more than what's been quoted and a dedicated project manager and acoustics expert will: consult, design and implement all work within a window of time that suits you.
