We inherited this characterful piece of furniture from a relative and sadly don't have much information on it's history. For us it's been a solid, practical piece of furniture in fantastic condition but with some signs that it's been around for a while.

Sadly, we are unsure of the age of the dresser but it's lovely craftsmanship and interesting detail suggest that it is from the Arts and Crafts era. It has really pretty iron handles and hinge work that have been much admired in the past.

The dresser comes in two pieces. The base is 160cm W x 88 H and the cabinet unit is 154cm W x 115H.
