32" Technika LCD TV with built in Freeview and remote control. The TV is four years old, in good condition and can be seen working. It has a selection of inputs including HDMI and Scart connections for a Sky box and games consoles, etc. It has its original stand and can also be wall mounted if required. I will try and include a pic shortly but the TV is quite slim and has a smart black frame. The only thing to note is that the battery cover on the remote is missing but the batteries stay in place fine. It's been this way for a couple of years! We've now upgraded to a much larger TV. From memory the original cost was £299. We're asking &#pound;.
