White, 1 owner, The new 390 Duke is a winner in the fun stakes and for most young riders thatâ€™s where it matters. Itâ€™s light, nimble and exciting, which is impressive. The 390 benefits from the grippier Metzeler tyres. The ABS-assisted brakes are learner-friendly, the seat height is low (just 800mm) and thin, which means even shorties won't have a problem touching the floor. Itâ€™s light and agile so not intimidating for new riders and itâ€™s not too heavy either. The motor packs 44bhp (it can be restricted to A2 compliant) and it feels a lot more as the bike is so light and lively. Tuck in small enough and the digital speedo will read an indicated 105mph. Thereâ€™s a little kick at just below 7000rpm which is the sweet spot, hit this mark and the Duke displays an impressive turn of pace. The Duke seems to be well finished. Every bike is quality checked in Austria before being shipped to dealers. You get ABS as standard and a digital dash as standard. The North Westâ€™s finest family run motorcycle dealership, £3,650 p/x
