I unfortunately have to put my lovely cob mare up for sale purely as I have no time due to having children and i'm not a confident rider and she is going to waste, She is brilliant with the farrier, just stands there. She has been ridden by myself and friends with no problems my children have been lead whilst sat on her and she has been brilliant!

she has had dogs run around barking and she is not fazed at all, I just don't have the confidence anymore,

Hannah needs someone with more time, knowledge and confidence than me, she will make someone a perfect little hacker, she's very layed back and friendly, she has only spooked once and that was because the farmer let the cows out as we was walking past and they came bolting towards us but nothing major, she never bolted or anything,

Hannah does still need some work and with a lot of love and time she will be perfect! Hannah is not for a novice as she is very interested in her surroundings, her ears go forward and she looks around so she needs to know who's boss. Hannah has manors to die for, she is absolutely great on the ground (have videos on request) Hannah is sold from field and little green hence why i'm asking for a confident person with good horse knowledge, I would like Hannah to only go to someone who will love her as I did as she deserves it. Also Hannah is great to load,
