This model is hard to find in good condition and screams Art Deco. Early 1930s to 1950s. This model was featured in the classic Hitchcock film "Dial M For Murder". Heavily discounted due to repaired side cracks. This is a beautiful telephone design. The No 10 dial retains its original number enamel dial face in perfect condition. This is a real statement telephone and shouts the period it was designed and first manufactured in 1931. See the advertisement of this model in 1933 to the side right. This telephone has been totally stripped down and rebuilt after each part has been cleaned and polished. It is fitted with a best quality electronic microphone, British manufactured hand plaited braided handset cord and a black round plastic GPO specification line in with a UK telephone plug socket. It has been converted and tested to work perfectly and should be fine on any telephone provider. This model is one of my personal favourites and I always try my best to have them on my site. This model often has cracks to the sides as this one has to the left side. It has been repaired and is only visible on close inspection and so this telephone has been heavily discounted. I usually sell perfect examples at £475. ready to plug in and
