This week: the best in cabaret, theatre & spoken word with OT Extras, presenting BARB JUNGR, TIM CROUCH, SIMON LIPKIN, JON ROBYNS, GILES TERERA, WENDY COPE & DICKIE BEAU

BARB JUNGR SINGS NINA SIMONE

The UK's finest interpreter of song, Barb Jungr returns to her stunning interpretations of the legendary vocalist and songwriter for this special performance at the Orange Tree to sing the songs of jazz colossus, Nina Simone.

'I, MALVOLIO' - TIM CROUCH

Tim Crouch is one of the UK's most original theatre makers. In his highly acclaimed one-man show, I, Malvolio, he re-imagines Shakespeare's Twelfth Night from the point of view of its most notoriously abused steward.

SIMON LIPKIN, JON ROBYNS, GILES TERERA

10 years ago, Giles, Jon and Simon starred together in the original London production of Avenue Q. Under the musical direction of Alex Williams, they will present an irreverent evening of song, banter and more larking about than you can shake a shtick at, featuring songs from Avenue Q and their many other musical theatre triumphs. This is the very first time the show has been performed, and depending on how much damage it does to their professional reputations, it could be the last. You wouldn't want to risk missing it.

THE B&U - UNUSUAL PERFORMANCES

The B&U is an evening of unusual performances, a rapid-fire cabaret. He takes the familiar technique of the refined and refined work which is the virtuoso of the beautiful. The B&U is a stripped-back evening of music, song, and stories, tell me the truth, and the voices of Judy Garland, Kenneth Williams and director Peter Sellers. Part variety show, part seance, this is an opportunity to enter the world of the country's most distinctive and exciting new talents.

WENDY COPE - ONE WEDDING AND A FUNERAL

Since the huge success 30 years ago of her first collection, Making Cocoa for Kingsley Amis, Wendy Cope has become one of the country's best-loved poets - witty, playful and wise. This intimate poetry reading will draw on work from her most recent collection, Family Values, alongside poems from the past.
