This really is a firendly little chap. he has been in the wars with his brother and unfortunately was not nuetered on time before they had a big fight and he has ripped his ear. i have taken him in as the lady fears even if she neuters him he will not go back together. he has been vet checked and it cant be repaired but has healed well. if you can give this delightfully buck rabbit a well deserved loving family home then please come and see him. no pic yet but he looks like this pic ive found for time being. (more like the darker one on the right with ear)
