The XKR has been modified to the extent that if you were viewing the vehicle from the rear you may find it hard to recognise that it is a Jaguar. The rear of the car has been fitted with a wide body kit, new circular rear lights, a small spoiler and a rear diffuser (the list goes on), not the parts you would expect to find on a Jaguar. The full conversion of the car cost the owner over £100,000! A sign that the work completed must be of an exceptional standard. When you usually think of an XKR speed isn't the first thing that comes to mind but, that this particular XKR has been upgraded and now claims to now have over 647bhp and is capable of reaching a staggering 200mph.
