I have for sale my Vivaro, I have owned it for the past 14 or so months and added 20,000 faultless miles. It is a lovely van, starts first time and drives perfect. I am only the second owner from new, mot till August I think. it has good tyres all round and new oil and filters about a month ago. Previous to this it had full service history when I purchased it, it has loads of paperwork, old mot's etc. condition wise it is overall very good, but for the fussy people, when the sun shines at the right angle down the side you can see swirl marks from a car wash or something, I also had signs on the rear doors and this has made the paintwork fade behind them. Also the front roof rack mounts on the roof are bent back a bit for some reason, if roof racks were to be added on im sure they could be bent back down easy enough. All can be seen in the pictures but I'm sure it doesn't fuss many as a van is a van! the seat has a rip as most vivaros do, there is a scrape on the front bumper and the odd scratch and ding here and there, but like I say overall it looks nice. It is on bmw alloys, lowered 40mm, bonnet wrapped matt black and has roof bars which really suit it and doesn't effect work capabilities, It will still carry the the weight it would normally. it has had a new battery and alternator recently. the rear of the van has a van vault safe for all you're tools, it does need a new lock but it's just a bog standard padlock that can be purchased anywhere, it also has deadlocks on all doors for extra security! If you have any questions please don't hesitate to ask, i will get back to emails quickly. thanks for looking! ;
