Free Eyelash Extensions with every Hair Extension Method, Starts at £60

Hi :) I am Bee

I am a born here in the uk, a Hair Extension Technician and beautician, I have been for over 15 years, I am a friendly and a perfectionist so I have very happy clients...

These are some of the extension method I do, including Beads, Bonds, Braids & Weave & Locks..
 Descriptions below may help you chose which is best for you...

Weave Or Sew-in: Sew-ins are cost-effective, easy maintenance and fairly easy to remove. The client's hair is braided tightly to create a base for the hair wefts to be sewn and attached. This technique is not for every client; not all hair types can handle the stress from the braiding and weight of the extensions. Clients need to have the hair retightened through the four months. There are many different textures, colours and types of hair for clients to pick from and there are many different price points, based on quality and length.

Micro Beads Or link: Micro links can be known as micro beads or locks, they are gentle to put in and easy to take out. Links can be added for length and volume. There is no glue or heat used when applying. To apply, a small silicone bead is placed onto the base of the client's hair, with an individual strand of hair. It is attached. Clients do not need to be careful of the condition of the bead to the hair. The weight of the hair will have to be taken every couple of weeks to have the extensions tighter for a month links last about a month.

Tape-in: Tape-ins can be used for some length, but I use them on clients for more volume and thickness.

It takes only a short amount of time to install the extensions. The client does not need to come in every six to eight weeks to have them removed and reinstalled. They are applied with a heated tool that heats up a thin strip of glue that is on the hair weft. The client's hair is put between two wefts to create a seal. They do not have to be careful with using heavy conditioners or oils because that can cause slipping. They are nice for clients because they can reuse the extensions many times before having to order new extensions.

Top Pieces: Top pieces are great for clients that are thinning on the top of their head. The extension adds thickness and volume to the top of the head to help camouflage thinning hair. The ones I have used either have a clip or micro beads keeping them in place. Clients do need to have them retightened from time to time.

Fusion: Hot or cold fusion is used on individual keratin bonds. Fusion extensions are great for clients seeking length and volume and want little maintenance while the extensions are in. The clients can treat the extensions as if it were their own hair. Fusion extensions might not be suitable for the client that has compromised hair due to the stress it can cause. It can take about two to three hours to have a full head of extensions put in and last about four months. This is one of the more costly extensions.

(Situating Close to Holborn Station) I will do a mobile hair dressing appointment too, call or WhatsApp for more details, consultation or booking.
