My style: A documentary wedding photographer

The art of seeing but not to be seen is crucial in capturing those natural candid moments. I set out to tell the story of your very special and personal day through photos. I don't interrupt or get you to pose for the camera constantly which helps me capture relaxed and natural coverage.

From the wedding enquiry to the booking.

I am so happy to meet you in a consultation, a great way to know each other and discuss in more detail whether you want a full day of photography or just a few options. All prices are discussed. A £500 non-refundable deposit is required to confirm my services. This will be held in the form of a bank transfer.

 A month before the big day

I will arrange a visit to the venue you are getting married at if I haven't photographed there before. I will also need a list of group shots and names of the guests so that all the group photo's can be taken as quickly as possible so you and your guests can carry on enjoying the day.

There is also the option to have some pre-wedding practice photographs, most people have never been though a shoot before, and having seen your pre-wedding images really helps you loosen up on the wedding day. Plus you get to keep the images, This is an extra £50 with the speical offer.

Full payment must be settled in full 30 days prior to the wedding. Supplementary album, product and services can always be ordered after

On the day Q and A

What if it rains?

Most venues will have a contingency plan if the weather is poor. There will always be a spare room, stairwell or foyer for group photos and those of the bride and groom. If it isn't too bad we can always take a walk under an umbrella and find some sheltered spots for your photos, but whatever the weather, indoors or out, I'll make sure you get great images.;
