Let me guess. You're flying around all over the place, working like a demon just trying to keep up, wasting precious time on tasks that stop you focusing on what you should be doing and you'd like to come up for air and actually breathe every now and again? Or maybe you've got it all under control but would just love to step back and enjoy more downtime? Whatever your situation, if you're looking for first class support from someone you can rely on to provide a seamless extension to your business, then I might be just what you've been searching for. I work independently, on a freelance basis from my own home, helping busy professionals like you with their admin, business and technical support needs, taking the weight off their shoulders and freeing up their precious time. You'll be amazed what a difference I can make to your business – not to mention your stress levels. As an experienced, independent virtual assistant, I specialise in providing executive PA, business, event and lifestyle support to busy entrepreneurs, consultants, coaches, trainers, executives and small business owners who recognise the value in outsourcing the tasks they can't do, don't enjoy doing or shouldn't be spending their valuable time on. I offer a range of services to provide comprehensive support for you and your business, which means you can delegate much more of your workload than you possibly even realise – so you can get on with what you do best. With a virtual assistant, you don't have to worry about the hassle and costs associated with traditional staff recruitment – you only pay for the time you use, no more, no less; you're not paying for wasted downtime; you receive flexible support; there's no tie-in and no minimum investment required. I offer a simple, cost-effective and efficient solution to help you achieve more...by doing less yourself. Your time is precious. You'll be amazed what a difference I can make. So if you're looking for tailored support from someone you can trust to deliver first class service, giving you more time to focus on your business rather than drowning in it, then I'd love to help.
