I have one special little girl who will be looking for a new home soon!! She is kc registered. She is special in the fact that she might have a hernia, which the vet noticed when she had her first health check. The vet advised me to wait and see if this will close by itself or she might need an operation. I am looking for a pet home for her, so that if she needs a hernia op she can have it yhe same time that she is neutered. She is a very loving little girl who will make some family very happy. She will has had a her first set of injections with the vet She has been microchipped and has been wormed regularly since 2 weeks of age. She will also have 4 weeks free insurance to help her over the settling in period.
 For more info please feel free to.
