Hey there, my name is Reevo, I'm at the beginning of my freelance web designer career. I'm currently coming into my 3rd year of university 2016/2017 as a mature student working towards a degree in web design. I take my design work very seriously, but it goes beyond that, I don't just put websites together and that's it, I put websites together that reflect your businesses identity. Design that makes sense! That's what makes me different from some other freelancers, is the fact I have been taught to put information in a correct hierarchy to ensure the user or audience viewing your website can get that message quickly without becoming confused or even bored. I suppose it's like fishing, we throw a tasty piece of bait out and hook to user. I can make pretty much any website you want, portfolio, e-commerce, shops, memberships and so on. I'll take you through step by step on how everything will work, from buying a domain name and getting your hosting to the content I need from you, either by email, drop boxes, phone calls or whatever method suites you. The quicker you get the things I need, the quicker your website will be up and running. I use WordPress, but I use WordPress on another level, not as a blogging platform, but as a web design platform, slightly technical, but I rip apart code from the back end to ensure you get what you and me want as a website. I can also code HTML and CSS from scratch, so If your after a static website that you think won't change then I can design from the bottom up in pure code. The choice is yours. To get more of an understanding of what I do, you can visit my YouTube channel attached to this ad, which will also direct you to my Facebook, Twitter and portfolio website. The pricing of a website will depend on what your after, it typically ranges between *£250-£500+ for example a small portfolio website would cost £250, but a small shop depending on the amount of products could cost £400+ it all depends on the amount of content. I will give you a quote before making any steps and a 50% deposit once agreed will have to be paid before work can begin, either by PayPal or bank transfer, whatever is easier for you. I'm currently doing this for the fact I've watched the development of my website and give you codes on what's happening so you feel comfortable with a progress being made. I do charge £100 a month for a month, but you will get a month free if you agree to this. I will also keep you up to date with the latest plugins to ensure it's running with no glitches and most importantly back your website up! *PLEASE NOTE When signing up with a host, for me to access your FTP or cpanel I may require your user name and password. More can be discussed if you feel unsure.
