I am a researcher in neuroscience and offer academic tutoring in biology, neuroscience, and academic writing as well as help with assignments and thesis preparation for high school and university. I can also help students who are starting to program in python, R, or MATLAB. I hold a Diploma (Master's equivalent) and a PhD in biology, both from the University of Leipzig, and have specialised in human neuroscience. Throughout my studies and academic career, I have been teaching and tutoring students as well as high school pupils in biology and courses related to biology. I am located in Edinburgh and also offer consultations on Skype if in-person meetings are not possible. Please message me if you are interested or if you have further questions. All the best,
