Some of these ideas and ventures may not see the light of the day, some may not be progressive enough to earn their existence in this competitive world, and some may thrive and progress upon other websites. Whatever be the case, there will be a presence of these entrepreneurs online through their websites. Some of these website owners might be interested in selling their websites either to support their financials or for some other reasons. Through this Digital Marketplace Script, we are providing you with a script to launch a market place of your own wherein you could buy and sell websites or web related products (Mobile Apps, Domains etc.) earning a high return on your investment. With its advanced pre-built functionalities, PHP Marketplace Script has already achieved a formidable status among its competitors. Besides having integrated many advance features in this script to enable better bidding during auctions we have also integrated a provision to view the expiry date of an auction through individual logins to assist the user in arriving at fruitful decisions. The launch pad or market place of websites should have their own uniqueness and facilities. Keeping this in mind, we have developed this Website Marketplace Script with essential features. This script not only facilitates smooth transactions among buyers and sellers but also sports a user-friendly design for smooth navigation across pages. Though filled with numerous features, we have mentioned a few for your ready reference.
