Do you, or someone you know by any chance have one of these tucked away within a handkerchief drawer somewhere, and not being used, or it has stopped, and possibly not been looked at in years and you have not yet attempted to have it checked by an expert? Hopefully it will be a 1980s example vintage watch. Well I would very much like to buy one of these again. If it has the original Rolex papers and box, my offer might well be considerably higher than the amount shown. It just depends on the current condition of the watch. This is a perfectly genuine private purchaser request, and I would be delighted to hear from you if you do have one and desire to sell it - so please telephone in complete confidence. Thank you for viewing.
