This is the practice of researching user behaviour which can locate problems that may be causing users to leave your site before buying. Although parts of this are included in our SEO packages, we can offer this as a standalone service for companies who want to immerse themselves into the consumer experience and journey of the user. This becomes more relevant as your site starts to attract thousands of visitors a day.

A successful CRO will have significant effects promoting the user to buy rather than exit. For more details:- Search Strategy
