Your website is in need of a dedicated server if you have outgrown VPS hosting and want to be the sole user of your server. If you opt for a dedicated server, not only will you have your own dedicated server in a data center of your choice but also no need to worry about power and bandwidth. If this sounds like a good option for you, then you need to spend some time researching and finding the best plan for you. We have researched and compiled a chart that compares all major data centers in the USA by location, price, RAM, disk, bandwidth and processors.
