A purpose of a sensory room is to help individuals to develop and engage with their senses. Lights, colours, sounds, sensory objects and aromas can all be used to allow a person to explore and interact without risk. The main benefits of a sensory room are Sensory stimulation, improved balance, movement and spatial orientation and providing calm and comfort for overactive and distressed individuals. A sensory room is also a place where children gain confidence by doing things that interest them at their own pace. After being in a sensory room, those whose lives are anything but easy are often calmer and more at peace with themselves and the.
