It is a high gloss, black (slimline) laptop. The keyboard is a delight to use with soft touch QWERTY keys, and very quiet, no clacking of the keys. It is five years old it looks and works just as well from the day I bought it. The reason I'm selling this Samsung laptop is: I bought a white printer, unfortunately the colour of the Samsung laptop (It has notebook written across the front of the original box) did not match the colour scheme of my desktop accessories. Other wise I would not part with it. (I replaced it for OS Windows 10 - I find obtrusive) There are two USB Ports, CD Drive HDD, Wired Lan Port, and a Monitor Port, Multi-Card slot and a Security Lock Port. It has a standard battery, life of three to four hours depending on your settings, or you could use the power cable and AC adapter, suitable if the programmes you are running or a download takes a while, perhaps your watching a movie or listening to music. It's frustrating when you are in the middle of a music download or watching a movie, preparing a thesis or writing, printing letters only to have the battery run out of energy. You can watch, pause and record live TV. See slide shows of your photos. Connect remotely. Work on your pc using Remote Desktop Connection in Windows. It has an Elan touchpad, you could use a mouse. You can if preferred use the voice command prompt to dictate your emails - this option would prevent key loggers prying into your personal email content. Microsoft Word is pre-installed; I depended on these for letters, photos and/or album creating flyers, personal cards, business cards, headed writing paper. Windows Live Photo Gallery allowed me to create my own videos, which I found incredibly satisfying. Red eye reduction, remove blemishes and clean up photos that you need this. The app camera takes pictures of you with hands and feet, shape enhancer, a new live chat from anywhere in the world. It has a sniffer tool which alerts you to stay on track when you want to take an action. E.g. - app that shows items before anything else, like without having to go through the waste in the window. It can make you watch music CDs using Windows Media Center and make home movies with media player or download your preferred app to replace Media Player. You can change the search engine this app has Bing and Windows Live Email. Installed, you can change that too. Should you need to restore the laptop it is supplied with a Recovery Disc - or the option will allow you to restore the system should you prefer. Samsung allows a complete Windows reinstallation and the repair of any damaged files to the original state when the notebook/laptop was new. It is in very good condition and am sure you will get many years of trouble free use from it. Happy times ahead for you.
