Levi's jeans have a long and separate history. In 1873, Levi Strauss & Co. was born, innovating the birth of the world's most famous pair of jeans. In 1873, Levi Strauss, a Jewish immigrant, and Jacob Davis, an Englishman, created a pair of pants for her husband that wouldn't fall apart. Jacob came up with the idea to put metal rivets at points of strain, like pocket corners and the base of the button fly. Davis collaborated with Levi and soon the first riveted clothing was made and sold. The first pair of 'jeans' were made from traditional denim, a popular choice of fabric for men's workwear, and within a very short time the jeans was a bona fide success. In 1873, two visionary immigrants turned denim thread and a little metal into what has become the most popular apparel on.
