London Market Forums is the place where insurance professionals meet, collaborate, learn and network. Join your peers and understand some of the key issues affecting the insurance sector today, from industry modernisation to the changing regulatory landscape. We have two types of Member: Practitioner - anyone actively working in the insurance community for one of the organization types mentioned above. Corporate - anyone from a professional services or supply company, such as lawyers or technology professionals, who do not work in the insurance sector directly, but support it through their professional activities. A fee applies to Corporate Members wishing to join. We work closely with personnel from Lloyd's of London, the IUA and other bodies throughout the Market to provide a cross-sector platform for collaboration and engagement between insurance professionals.
