A new kind of Wi-Fi system We count on Wi-Fi at home more than ever. Whether you're video chatting with mum, binge-watching the latest series via your streaming provider, or simply getting work done, strong and reliable Wi-Fi is key to staying connected. We are excited to introduce a Wi-Fi solution for all types of users, a new connected Wi-Fi system designed to give you a fast signal in every room, on every wireless device you own. Most of us get Wi-Fi in our homes and business through a centralized router, but using a single router to spread signal throughout your whole home is like expecting one light bulb to light up every room. Walls and distance make it difficult for a single device to send a strong signal to every corner of your home, resulting in slow Wi-Fi and dead zones. Fast Wi-Fi throughout your home Our Wi-Fi was designed from the ground up to support the new ways we use Wi-Fi. These days, Wi-Fi has to be able to support lots of devices at the same time, and stand up to high-bandwidth activities like streaming video or gaming — in every room of your house. Our Wi-Fi solution is an expandable system, so for larger homes and business, you can simply add more Wifi points. They connect to one another and spread a strong network signal to every room. The system uses a technology called mesh Wi-Fi (something usually only seen in expensive commercial installations). Within our mesh network, each Wi-Fi point creates a high-powered connection, and multiple access points work together to determine the best path for your data. The result is fast Wi-Fi everywhere in your building, not just right next to the.
