Lexis School of Languages is a boutique language school in Finchley Central, North London, England. We believe people should learn more about the world. Meeting people and making friends from other countries, understanding new cultures and learning English will give you many opportunities, enrich your life and ultimately make the world more peaceful and productive. Learning a new language requires commitment; from you the student but also from your teacher and your school. There is no magic formula! Lexis School of Languages has helped thousands of students since 2007 to improve their English so that they can progress in their lives. We can help you also! We have helped students from all parts of Europe, Africa, the Middle East, Central & East Asia and many South & Central American countries to study at English speaking universities or to improve their professional.
