OK so....

Anyone interested in creating a social network or group for night time events?

I know there is something called gig buddies already but it's not necessarily suitable for everyone. I'm socially awkward and I find myself twiddling my thumbs when it seems the whole of Brighton is partying! do you? Sometimes it would be nice to do something with like minded individuals that doesn't revolve around drinking to excess or the mating rituals...

if so maybe we could create a group on meet up or something...I'm not sure where to start and realise this advert is a long shot but nothing ventured etc.....in fact in 'ye olden times' lonely hearts and classifieds were a main source for trying to connect with people...

a bit about me (not that it should matter right...)

I'm male, 43 and have northern roots

interested in... people, world politics, science AND trying in my little way to try and make a better world

So many people are depressed and negative atm and it would be wonderful if we could join together and defeat it with love, positivity and acceptance

email in first instance with ideas
