cavalier king charles male for rehome name jolly doesnt respond to this though ( i cannot say if he is pure bred or not his passport states cavalier king charles and his microchip cavachon). he is a timid/scared little fellow so please dont consider giving him a home if you are unable to work through his issues with him, as far as im aware he has always lived in kennels so i could not advise on house training he does not walk on a collar and lead. i have had him vet checked and restarted his vaccinations as he had no proof of these no health concerns. he will be a very loving loyal dog with the correct environment he shows interest in children and other dogs more than he does adults this could be caused by his upbringing but its unknown he needs a stable home in which he can grow i would suggest a quieter environment as appose to a busy household any further questions please feel free to ask he was born 21st of april 2017 so 3 months of
