This Yamaha digital piano was brand new only 6 months ago, but sadly I can no longer play owing to a severe muscle condition in my left hand. I will leave it to Yamaha themselves to list the many features of this remarkable instrument:

- Yamaha CLP-575
- Realism in every detail of sound and touch including a Linear Graded Hammer keyboard and state-of-the-art Virtual Resonance Modelling.
- Piano voicing sampled from Yamaha CFX and Bösendorfer Imperial grand pianos
- Virtual Resonance Modeling (VRM)
- 256-note polyphony
- NWX (Natural Wood X) keyboard with synthetic ivory keytops and escapement
- 88-key Linear Graded Hammer action
- GP Response Damper Pedal
- Acoustic Optimiser
- Intelligent Acoustic Control
- 303 lesson songs
- Rhythms
- Stereophonic Optimizer
- 2-way Speakers

I got this instrument as "almost" showroom condition, only because it has been used in my home for a few weeks and the keys are in pristine condition. As can be seen in the photograph above, the keys are wooden with synthetic ivory tops. It really is a delight to play. The sampling for the piano voices is so realistic it's almost impossible to differentiate between this and an acoustic piano. It has 2 separate headphone sockets, a midi connection, USB in and aux out. I have played it, but not much, and it is in pristine condition. This model comes in a beautiful rosewood finish. Originally priced at over £2000.
