My name is Eve Mabley and I am currently in the process of establishing my own business whilst studying for a-levels in art, photography and graphics. Due to the nature of the fields of work I would like to go into, the majority of my future income will be provided through freelancing my skills. To do this I believe a professional stance will have to be upheld during the start of my journey in order to gather trust and a reputation within the my possible market. To establish this connection easily and quickly I am offering my skills free of charge in return for a reference or review on this website. At this moment in time I am only able to offer my photographic services as this is one of the avenues I would like to progress in. I am offering to you my services and an electronic copy of the images I have taken, all edited and colour corrected to ensure that you receive the best quality.
