Hello world!
I'm offering various IT services, building websites and databases, writing programs, designing graphics, administering servers.
The story of my life is simple - I've been active as a programmer and server admin for around 15 years already and I have worked in multiple industries (online booking, advertising, telecommunications and distributed processing), big international companies, etc.
I found that I parsue different goals than what is projected in mainstream media, so I started my own small business to focus on cooperation with real people on their real ideas and needs, helping them bootstrap and grow their businesses.
If you plan something new or have an ongoing project you need help with, feel free to contact me.
I can help you with your strategy, I can help you build your website, create your logo or promotion/marketing materials, configure your domain, email on all your devices, choose existing software, choose service providers (hostings, etc.), install/configure/administer you services.
I also implement complex software. I worked with wide array of technologies.
I'm also able to organize your work into a set of deliverable pieces so that the things stay in focus and keep.
