The amplicomms v130 system allows care-givers to see and hear their baby, and a 'VOX' or Voice Operated Transmission feature allows them to speak back to the baby, who hears the voice through a speaker on the camera.

2.4GHz digital transmission provides reliable transmission throughout the home, through walls, floors and ceilings; and if for some reason the transmission is not coming through, a visual alert on the monitor shows 'out of range.'

It is worth noting that the transmission range can be optimised by using the fold-out antennas on both the monitor and camera.

The monitor unit can be worn on a belt clip, and the wearer can make use of the vibration alert. This system is supplied with a powerful under-pillow shaker unit (PTV100)

Monitor

CD display with zoom
 Video control
 18 hr rechargeable battery life, 1500mAh
 Intruder alarm (beep and 2 red light indicators)
 Stand-by time: max 6 hours (VOX off, video function on)

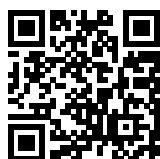

6 infra red diodes for night vision function enables the transmission of pictures from areas which are not illuminated. This night vision function is activated automatically when the light conditions make it necessary. When the night vision function is activated, the screen display on the receiver turns to
