If you want to change the color or theme of your WordPress navigation menu? So you are reading a right article! Actually, your WordPress theme handles the navigation menu.

Also, you can customize it by using CSS to meet your needs. In this article, we want to show you how to style the WordPress Navigation Menu on your site. We will tell you two different ways.

Method 1: Styling WordPress Navigation Menus by Using a Plugin

Your WordPress theme uses CSS to style navigation menus. First of all, you need to install the CSS Hero plugin software and activate it. When you are activating the CSS hero then you will be redirected to get a license key.

You just follow the instructions and you will be redirected to your website in just a few clicks. Then you need to click the CSS Hero button in your WordPress Admin Toolbar.

After that, You need to click the blue icon at the top to edit.

Clicking on the button will take you to your site with floating CSS hero toolbar on the screen.

Then You can start editing after click on the blue icon at the top. Then move your cursor on the screen to your navigation menus. Let's assume that we want to change the background color of our navigation menu. So, we have to select top navigation that affects our entire menu.

Now you can see various properties of CSS Hero

Which you can edit in background, border, text, padding, margin etc.

Method 2: Manually Style WordPress Navigation Menus

For this method, you need to add custom CSS manually. It is meant for intermediate users. Make sure WordPress navigation menus are shown in an unordered list.

Usually, if you use the default WordPress settings, the menu will not be a list with any CSS classes associated with it.

In each unordered list, the name of the category containing the list item is 'menu', it has its own CSS class.

This can be done if you have only one menu area, while you can display the navigation menu in many different places in many different places.
