With its clever blend of history and design this 400+ year old house in the Collachio is the default choice for those romantics for whom style is a priority. A fascinating mixture of discreet glamour and colourful indulgence makes this a fairy-tale bolt-hole.

The bespoke furniture pieces with the voluptuous legs are well suited to the high ceilings and large light-filled rooms. Carrara marble and silk curtains in vibrant Designer's Guild colours sensuously rouse passions you never knew you had in you.

Indulgence Divine comes with a modern kitchen, a large dining room, and a spacious living room that overlooks the roof terrace. It also features a tantalising bedroom set in the old house chapel and en suite bathroom with curvy glass mosaic walls. The house is situated in the walled city of Vittoriosa, right behind the Palace of the Inquisition and a stone's throw from the luxury yachts of the Marina.
